CLASS HISTORY

The Senior Class of '43 has added and lost a score or more of members on its journey through school, until now the most honorable and interesting Senior Class in the history of Goshen Central School makes its farewell.

Robert Bach, a quiet, mannerly child, and Jeanne Gillespie, a fresh little tomboy, started off the Class of '43 when they entered kindergarten in 1930. They played their way through this first year of school and then passed on to the first grade, where they were joined by William Smith, Marjorie Vavricka, then a polite, studious girl, Roy Gorish, a cute little tow-head, and Valarina Zabachta from Brooklyn, who had a bona fide accent, but soon lost it under the tutoring of the Cream of Goshen's Crop.

These six girls and boys frolicked through the lower grades until they reached fourth grade, where Miss Van Ider Stine told them that they were beginning to grow up. After that, they settled down with dignity to the seriousness of school life, setting an example for the present-day Juniors, who were even then finding it a struggle to live up to the good name that the Seniors left behind them in each class.

In that year, we were joined by Joseph Cook, who came to us through the courtesy of the Sayer Street School. He was later to become one of Goshen's best in the world of sports.

Jerry Bally joined us from P. S. 119, Brooklyn, during the fifth grade. Then, as now, she was a leader in all our sports.

Bobby Bach, alias Flappy, left us at the end of that year to travel from one community to another. He found none that could take the place of Goshen, so he rejoined us from Chester in our freshman year. Joseph Donovan was Garr's first contribution to the Class of '43, and his gentlemanly ways soon won the hearts of all who knew him.

In our seventh year, the school was centralized and our class was greatly enlarged by the addition of such students from New Hampton as Virginia Hill, whose distilleries became the talk of the country, Alice Soons, whose saloons featured Ginny's gin and apple juice, Louis Pellarin, quiet, but "Oh, brother!", Grace Weeden and Harry Mabee joined us from Gates School. Bobby Cortright, whose blond curls were the envy of every junior high school girl, came from La Grange, and last, but not least, Edward Mally, destined to become the Mayor of Durlandville, came from that little metropolis. Bob Clauson journeyed from Mount Joy late in January to add his corn to the already green jokes.

In 1939, we entered our eighth year and became famous as "8-B." Some of the 8-A students were so fond of us and envied so much the fun we had that they decided to join us. Among these were Marion Knapp, better known as "Snappy" (ask the Kirbytowners!); Irene Price, whose long fingernails caused a mild sensation among the 8-B girls; Norman Crotty, the Boy Wonder of our Shorthand 1 class; Teresa Richner, interested in stenography and Bob; Joe Gott, who punned his way through; and Waverly Parris, who is taking such good care of "The Hambletonian."

Thus, we safely graduated from eighth grade, a happy, wholesome group, looked up to and respected by the meek undergraduates.

Garr Hall made two more contributions to the Class of '43 in our freshman year in the form of a brother act, Adam and Leonard Filipowski. From the Lower Road School, came John Martin, alias Pepper, and Josie Slowinski, whose ambition it is to be secretary to President Roosevelt in his eighth term. Lucretia Keller came all the way from Brooklyn to become editor-in-chief of the school paper, while Betty McCrea came from Chester to take care of Marion Knapp and Florence Clarke. Florence, along with Pauline Noviski, future Onion Queen, and Frank Glebocki, our own little Atlas Maidenswoon, came from Seward Institute in Florida.

Recovering from the after-effects of social studies, general science, business, Latin 1, and English 1, we returned to school, the new one on Lincoln Avenue, as sophomores. During that year, William Hulle, who had heard of us down on Long Island and wanted to try his luck with us, joined our happy-go-lucky crowd. After getting lost in the seemingly never-ending corridors of the new building for nine months, it was a relief to have a vacation before coming back as Juniors to set a good example to last year's Seniors.

Betty Frey joined us from St. Albans on Long Island, and Garr gave four more of their men, Edward Knob, Norman Black, Joseph O'Brien, and Robert Flaherty to our athletic teams. Bobby grew homesick for Garr and left us after only a few weeks, but he missed us so much, however, that he came back in our Senior year, but left in December to join the Navy. Philip Martin and Bill Strong, two hangovers, also joined us.

The Juniors of '42, being an enterprising class, elected officers and began right away to make history. Their officers were:

President.....	Roy Gorish
Vice-President.....	Marjorie Vavricka
Secretary.....	Jeanne Gillespie
Treasurer.....	Jerry Bally

decided to become the Mayor of Danburyville, came from that little municipality. Bob Ganson journeyed from Mount Joy late in January to add his name to the six-man board.

In 1930, we entered our eighth year and became famous as "B-B." Some of the B-B students were so fond of us and envied us much that we had them called to join us. Among these were Marion Knapp, better known as "Benny"; Jack the Kitchener; Irene Price, whose long hair was called a "B-B" and a sensation among the B-B girls; Norman Gentry, the Boy Wonder of our Boardman class; James Henson, interested in stenography and Bob; Joe Galt, who passed his way through; and Beverly Harris, who is taking such good care of "The Herald-Tribune."

Thus, we satly graduated from eighth grade, a happy, wholesome group, looked up to and respected by the good students.

Our Hall gave two more contributions to the class of '30 in our graduation year in the form of a President, Allen and Leonard Williamson. From the Lower Boardman, came John Martin, alias Popper, and Jessie Stewart, whose graduation is to be necessary to President Roosevelt in his eighth year. Lucetta Keller came all the way from Hingham to become editor-in-chief of the school paper, while Betty Knapp came from Chester to take care of Marion Knapp and Norman Gentry. Florence, along with Pauline Hovell, Edna Gentry, and Frank Gonsky, our own little Allen Williamson, came from Broward Institute in Florida.

Recovering from the after-effects of school studies, General students, business, Latin I, and Italian I, we returned to school, the new one on Lincoln Avenue, as sophomore. During that year, William Miller, who had heard of us from our home, joined and wanted to try his luck with us. Joined our happy-go-lucky group. After testing out in the academy, it was a leading contributor of the new building for the month. It was a relief to have a vacation before coming back in October to see a good example of last year's scholars.

Betty first joined us from 65, Allen on last fall, and our new lot of 1931 was, Edward Knapp, Norman Black, Joseph O'Brien, and Robert Finkley as our English team. Betty grew from her year and left us after only a few weeks, but he missed us so much, however, that he came back in our Senior year, but lost in December to join the Navy. Philip Martin and Bill Murray, the new ones, also joined us.

The Junior of '32, being an extraordinary class, elected officers and a class song to make history. Their efforts were:

President.....Ray Dorris
Vice-President.....Nancy Gentry
Secretary.....Anna Williams
Treasurer.....Betty Miller

They sold candy at the booth and at football and basketball games. They held a sport dance, followed by a highly successful group of plays. The Junior Prom, held in May, became the most talked-of event of the year. The gym was beautifully decorated, having a false ceiling which took nearly three days to erect, under the direction of Joseph Donovan. Johnny Hanaford's orchestra supplied the music. The Commencement Dance, given to the Seniors by the Juniors annually, added another bit to the Junior treasury.

Our Senior year began with two more additions to the class in the forms of Eileen Sullivan, who finished up in January, and from Seward Institute came Stanley Meduski, who set more than one feminine heart a-flutter.

Officers were soon elected and plans made for the prom and the play. They were as follows:

President.....	John Martin
Vice-President.....	Edward Knob
Secretary.....	Norman Crotty
Treasurer.....	Jerry Bally
Prom Chairman.....	Roy Gorish

Since we couldn't have a Senior Trip, we decided to have a really big prom. Decorations were lavishly bought, and Ralph Palumbo's orchestra, featuring Doris Dempsey, furnished the music. This prom will long be remembered in Goshen for its good music and lovely setting.

The Senior Play, "The Ghost Parade," was presented January 21, under the direction of Mr. Olsen. Shortly after, the villain of the play, Joe Donovan, was inducted into the Army.

Many other boys took their Regents in January and left for the armed services. Among these were Joe Gott and Leonard Filipowski for the Navy, Joe Mahoney for the Army, and Norman Crotty for the Marines.

Several other boys finished in April and left for farm work. From the Senior Class went Bob Cortright, Bob Bach, Bill Hulle, and Bill Strong.

After Commencement, several other boys will leave for farm work or the armed services. Through their world-wide exploits, the fame of the Class of '43 will be spread. We are looking forward to a reunion in 1953, and we'll all be there in Black's Beanery to reminisce about the good times we had, despite the limitations of war.

Long live the Class of '43!

They sold candy at the booth and at football and basketball games. They held a sports dinner, followed by a highly successful group of plays. The Junior Prom, held in May, was one of the most talked-of events of the year. The gym was beautifully decorated, having a floor ceiling which took nearly three days to erect, under the direction of Joseph Donovan. Johnny Haneland's orchestra supplied the music. The Commodore's Dinner, given to the Seniors by the Juniors annually, added another bit to the Junior treasury.

Our Senior year began with two more additions to the class in the form of Alison Sullivan, who finished up in January, and from Edward Institute came Stanley McDaniel, who set more than one leading heart a-flutter.

Officers were soon elected and plans made for the prom and the play. They were as follows:

- President.....John Martin
- Vice-President.....Edward Nash
- Secretary.....Norman Gossy
- Treasurer.....Jerry Bailey
- Prom Chairman.....Roy Gorish

Since we couldn't have a Senior trip, we decided to have a really big prom. Decorations were lavishly bought, and John Pollock's orchestra, featuring Boris Gossy, furnished the music. This prom will long be remembered in Golden for its good music and lavishly setting.

The Senior Play, "The Good Parade," was presented January 23, under the direction of Mr. Olson. Shortly after, the villain of the play, Joe Donovan, was induced into the Army.

Many other boys took their Regents in January and left for the armed services. Among these were Joe Gott and Leonard Filipowski for the Navy, Joe Mahoney for the Army, and Norman Gossy for the Marines.

Several other boys finished in April and left for war work. From the Senior Class went Bob Garfield, Bob Bach, Bill Muller, and Bill Strong.

After Commencement, several other boys will leave for four weeks or the armed services. Through their wide exploits, the boys of the Class of '45 will be spread. We are looking forward to a reunion in 1945, and we'll all be there in black's harmony to reminisce about the good times we had, despite the limitations of war.

CLASS WILL OF '43

We the class of '43, of clear and intelligent minds do draw up and declare our last will and testament, to the student body of Goshen Central School.

To Mary Lou Santos we leave a rubber stamp with Mr. Sinclair's signature on it so she can make out her own absense slips.

We leave LUCRETIA (Editor-in-Chief) KELLER'S heartbroken admirers to Nellie Werner so Lucretia can go into missionary work with a peaceful mind and the contentment of knowing Nellie will keep them well occupied.

To Leon McBride we will NORMAN BLACK'S ability to be good-looking and not be conceited.

To the Shorthand 1 class we leave this years Shorthand 11's intelligence.

We leave Mary Gray Swezey a comb and a package of "bobbies" to keep her hair out of her eyes.

We will FLORENCE CLARKE'S natural blonde hair to Marie Springer.

To Jane Clayton we leave haunting memories of "HACK" MEDUSKI.

We leave PEPPER MARTIN's caveman technique and his ability to be an outstanding class president to Bill Swanwick.

To Ruth and Jack we present JERRY'S and HARRY'S cozy corner in Mr. Pritchard's darkroom. We guarantee excellent results.

To Worley Wahl we leave a "Superman water pistol" and a personal diary of each of the seniors, so that he doesn't have to take daring risks trying to play Junior G-Man.

We leave ED MALLY'S heavy beard to you young men who have not yet started to use a blade.

To the Home Economics class we leave MARGE VAVRICKA'S beautiful wig to be used as a combination dusting rag and floor mop; her blue eyes for the little graders to play marbles with; her removable wooden leg to next year's varsity baseball team to use as a bat; and other miscellaneous features to anyone who can keep them under control.

We leave one of the SENIOR BOYS to the Junior Girls who would be so "nice to come home to."

To Miss Clement we wish happiness and good luck in whatever she undertakes and many thanks for her patience in pulling us through our favorite subject.

We will ROBERT CLAUSON'S ability in Agriculture to Eugene Creeden and also a jar of grease to keep his hair down.

To Ruth Clayton we leave a volume of True Romances so she will have plenty of material for English book reports.

We leave Karl Kohn's nimble and talented pianist fingers to Marilyn Suresky so she can play much better.

To Gordon Parker we leave Inez Francisco to be his little helper in feeding the chickens.

To Harriet Polletz we leave some men at that girls' private school she is going to.

We leave Franky Glebocki's beautiful head and body to the Biology class of next year for dissection and experimentation.

We leave Miss Stratton a bottle of Startem Burpen Bicarbonate to accompany a cafeteria luncheon.

To Mr. Martin we leave a new baby carriage with a motor so he can crawl in when the pushing gets tough.

To the entire student body we leave the memories and friendships of the boys who left our class for the armed forces: Namely, JOE DONOVAN, NORMAN CROTTY, LEONARD FILIPOWSKI, LEWIS MALINOVSKI, JOE GOTT, ROBERT FLAHERTY, and JOE MAHONEY.

We bequeath BETTY FREY'S Judy Canova voice to her sister; also her position as waitress at the Orange Inn.

To Miss Waite we leave some handsome men teachers for next year.

To Mr. Sprague we bequeath a pair of "spats" so he can save his #17 ticket.

To Mr. Olsen we leave a contract from Hollywood.

It is a very heavy book, and it is very hard to read.

The book is written in a very simple and easy style, and it is very interesting to read.

It is a very good book, and it is very well written.

We leave Mr. Slone a pair of roller skates so that he can keep up with his secretary.

To Phil Pines we leave ALICE SOON'S super-duper curlers so that he can put up his eyelashes and hair at night.

We leave ADAM FILIPOVSKI'S sensational marks in mathematics to Jean Bonauto.

To Miss English we leave "orange blossoms" in June.

We leave Josie Slowinski's and PAULINE NOVISKI'S onion stand to Lucy Lempka and Lois Noviski,

And last but not least we leave to Mr. Hooker our undying gratitude for guiding us through twelve trying years.

Poem

When we have long departed,
And the school is dull and dead,
You will miss us one and all,
From pussyface to Ed.

You'll miss our friendly shining faces,
And the foolish pranks of Franky
Not to overlook our joy,
In making teachers cranky.

When all the Senior boys have left,
Including Hack and Blacky,
There will be no eligible males,
To knock the girls all wacky,

Pepper Martin, our strong-armed man,
And Louis, the great, big brute,
Had all the girls in a dither,
But they never gave a hoot.

Let us mention the Senior girls,
With charm you'll n'er forget,
And if you think you'll find much nicer,
Brother, you're all wet.

A treat for anyone to know,
Were Betty, Flo, and Alice
And Marion, queen of Kirbytown,
Who now lives in a palace.

Reminiscing over names,
There are Josie, Grace, and Terry,
And Val, the little Russian girl,
With vudka, she makes merry.

My poem is almost over,
As are our twelve long years,
Which we have covered with success
Overcoming all our fears.

We leave Mr. Glass a pair of roller skates so that he can keep up with his secretary.

To Phil Pines we leave ALICE BOON'S super-duper cariers
so that he can put up his eyelashes and hair at night.

We leave ADAM WILKINS' sensational marks in mathematics to Jack Bonanza.

To Miss English we leave "orange blossoms" in June.

We leave Louis Slowinski's and PAULINE NOVICKI's sales stand to Lucy Langha and Iola Novicki.

And last but not least we leave to Mr. Hocket our wacky
the gratitude for guiding us through twelve trying years.

Yours

When we have long parted,
And the school is full of boys,
You will miss us one and all,
You guarantee to be.

You'll miss our "silly" smiling faces,
And the foolish games of Pines,
Not to mention our joy,
In making a "silly" story.

When all the better boys have left,
Including those and those,
There will be no eligible males,
To make the girls all weedy.

Further forward, our strong-armed son,
And Louis, the great, big brute,
And all the girls in a cluster,
But they never gave a hoot.

Let us mention the better girls,
With whom you'll never forget,
And if you think you'll find them nice,
Remember, you're all well.

A treat for anyone to know,
Jane Jolly, the, and Alice,
And Louise, great as a giant,
The now lives in a house.

Remember over notes,
That are Louis, Grace, and Jerry,
And I, the little Russian girl,
Remembering, and always happy.

My pen is almost over,
So say our love and yours,
With a love covered with kisses,
Love, love, love, love.

CLASS PROPHECY

Last Thursday evening the Class of 1943 held a reunion in the spacious ballroom of Black's beanery. Norman, the proprietor, now operates an extensive chain of beaneries all over the United States. The music for the occasion was furnished by Harry Mabee and his "Stomping Stumpers" with the vocalists being that "Gruesome Twosome" Virginia Hill and Betty Frey. They have just graduated from the Dorothy Lane School of Voice Culture. Feature attraction of the evening was Jeanne Gillespie who came all the way from her nursing duties in the Mayo Clinic to do her famed "Flighty Nighty" dance.

The banquet was momentarily interrupted by the entrance of missionary Lucretia Keller who was followed by eight Ubangis and her devoted husband, the Rev. Waverly Parris.

Before the speaking took place, the class participated in a hearty chicken dinner mysteriously provided by the "foul" corporation of "Hulle, Cook, and Bach."

Roy Gorish, Dr. Rakov's able assistant, did the honors of carving the chicken.

Before the speech making took place, several notables made their appearances. Among the late comers were Mrs. Harry Mabee fresh from her third reconciliation with Harry in Reno. Accompanying her were their three little piano players, Harry, Larry, and Barry.

Sergeant-at Arms, Ed Mally, now connected with the D.A.'s office had his men posted around the ballroom to keep away the delinquent and unscrupulous members of the Class of 1944.

Making a grand entrance was first lady of Kirbytown, Marion Knapp, who is now on the same footing as Mrs. Roosevelt, the everlasting first lady.

The first lady was followed by Mr. and Mrs. William Strong. Mrs. Strong, the former Alice Soons, has held the title of Apple Queen of Orange County for the past ten years.

One of the guests of honor was Mayor Stanley Meduski, of Florida who attended with his lovely wife, formerly Pauline Noviski. They are now happily married and are busy raising five little onion pickers.

Valerina Zabachta is the proprietor of a Kennel which specializes in the raising of "Scotties."

Last Thursday evening the Class of 1944 held a reunion in the spacious ballroom at Gluck's banquets. Norman, the proprietor, now operates an extensive chain of banquets all over the United States. The night for the occasion was furnished by Harry Labe and his "Swinging Steamers" with the vocalists being that "Gorgeous Twosome" Virginia Hill and Betty Gray. They have just graduated from the Dorothy Lane School of Voice Culture. Several attention of the evening was toward Gillepie who came all the way from her nursing duties in the Navy Clinic to do her famed "Nighty Night" dance.

The banquet was most artistically decorated by the entrance of Miss Mary Lucille Keller who was followed by eight Usher-Is and her devoted husband, the Rev. Waverly Fortis.

Before the speaking took place, the class participated in a happy chicken dinner mysteriously provided by the "Fruit" corporation at "Hill, Goss and Koch."

Ray Gortish, Dr. Harry's sole assistant, did the honors of serving the chicken.

Before the speech making took place, several assemblies made their appearance. Among the late comers were Harry, Harry, Fred from his third re-enlistment with Harry in Korea. Accompanying her were their three little piano players, Harry, Betty, and Harry.

General-at-Arms, Ed Kelly, who is connected with the D. A. C. office had his men posted around the ballroom to keep away the delinquents and unscrupulous members of the Class of 1944.

During a grand address was first lady of Kingston, Virginia Mrs. P. B. Le on the same occasion as Mrs. Hosseloff, the everlasting first lady.

The first lady was followed by Mr. and Mrs. William Strong. Mrs. Strong, the former Alice Jones, has held the title of a life member of Orange County for the past ten years.

One of the guests of honor was Harry George Moberg, of Florida who attended with his lovely wife, formerly Pauline Moberg. They are now happily married and are busy raising five little angel piglets.

Valerie Babcock is the proprietor of a kennel which specializes in the raising of "Cockerles."

Quite a commotion took place when Ed Mally's strong-arm man, Frank Glebocki, alias "Sweety Face," carried in the diminutive Bill Swanwick, President of the Junior class, who was caught trying to steal Grace Weeden's million-dollar necklace. Grace, who inherited the fortunes of a wealthy uncle, is financing Rev. and Mrs. Parris's missionary work in Africa.

Florence Clarke and Teresa Richner are co-partners in the ownership of the magazine "Silk Stockings" which has been running a long time. Bob Cortright is working for them and has lately been advanced to the position of office boy.

The climax of the evening was several class notables making exciting speeches on their professions. Josie Slowinski who is now the world's champion shorthand writer. She took notes on the speeches. Josie has made the outstanding accomplishment never achieved by a human being in taking shorthand at a thousand words per minute.

The first speech of the evening was made by our class president, John Martin, who is now Governor of New York State and runs a garage as a side line with Bill Smith as head mechanic. During the course of the speech, John went back to 1943 reminiscing over many days spent at hard work. John has never regretted that he always kept at his work, never played hockey, was always willing to accept the teacher's view, and never once dreamt of putting the tack on Mr. Campaigne's seat or of tormenting him as some of the other rowdys did.

The next speech of the evening was delivered by Professor Louis Pellarin who has been doing research work at the "University of Whatastinkami" and belongs to the fraternity of "I-betcha," has finally hit upon a cure for the dreaded squirrel fever which has been spreading all over our country and Europe. He has been acclaimed by all the courts of the world. Many prominent men say that an overdose of his serum was the cause of Hitler's death.

Edward Knob, class vice-president, had the lucky fortune to inherit the super-colossal dry cleaning business of his father-in-law who has retired from this trade. Mr. Knob has finally revolutionized this business by inventing a machine in which a person in order to have his suit cleaned walks in one door and comes out the other with a neat pleat and a creased seat.

Marjorie Vavricka, the girl who used to knock the boy's eyes out at Goshen High School is still doing it down at Minsky's Frolics. Margie is the cute blonde front row, center. Adam Filipowski who is now on the radio as Professor "Quizme" has been following Margie for some time. Believe me, the professor who had all the earmarks of a mild and meek man is the wolf in sheeps clothing. For the last ten years, he has been following Margie on her tours about the country in order to gain her affections. He caught up with her at the County Fair only to

Quite a considerable crowd gathered in the arm room Frank Olschick, alias "Smooty", carried in the diminutive Bill Sweeney, President of the United States, who was caught trying to steal Grace Woodson's million-dollar necklace. Grace, who inherited the fortune of a wealthy uncle, is financially free, and Mrs. Parry's missionary work is altered.

Flora, Elmer and T. Ross Blomberg are co-partners in the ownership of the machine "Bill Sweeney", which has been running a long time. Bob Corbett is working for them and has recently been advanced to the position of chief clerk.

The climax of the evening was reached when the last exciting episode in their presentment, "The Sweeney", was who is now the world's champion short-hand writer, the book notes on the speeches. T. Ross had to do the outstanding work-placement never achieved by a human being in taking shorthand at a thousand words per minute.

The first scene of the evening was made by our guest president, John Martin, who is now Governor of New York State and runs a large estate with Bill Sweeney as head member. During the course of the speech, T. Ross went back to 1907 reminding over many days of his past work. T. Ross has never regretted that he always kept of his work, never played hockey, was always willing to accept the world's view, and never once thought of putting the work on Mr. Campaigne's seat or of transferring him an acre of the Sweeney's land.

The next scene of the evening was delivered by Professor Louis Teller who has been doing research work at the "University of Washington" and has been the first to discover the "atomic" bomb. He told us that upon a certain day he discovered that which has been spreading all over the country and Europe.
He has been described by all the people of the world. Many president has said that on the day of his term was the end of Hitler's dream.

Edward Teller, also vice-president, and the lucky fortune to inherit the Sweeney's land of his business of his father-in-law who has retired from the Sweeney. Mr. Teller has recently revolutionized his business by inventing a machine in which a person is able to have his own self-owned machine in one hour and only a few dollars with a great effort and a great deal.

Martin V. Teller, the first to knock the boy's eyes out at the Sweeney High School, is still "hot" in the Sweeney's office. Martin is the only one who has not been "killed" by a Sweeney and is now in the Sweeney's "Sweeney" has been told to be the first to be killed. Believe me, the professor who has been the first to be killed and look at the wall in which he is standing. For the first time, he has been following Marilyn in her course about the country in order to win her election. He caught up with her at the County Fair only to find that she had been happily married at Minsky's since her debut. She has three little children, the first one was Fin-eavitch, the second one was Onemoreavitch, and the third one was Plenty.

At the close of the evening, Phil Martin, photographer for the daily newspaper, Big Noise, took pictures of the notables attending the banquet.

This resume of the banquet was reported by Betty McCrea, now a famous newspaper woman who has been a foreign correspondent for the Goshen Democrat for quite a number of years.

Class Poem

We now must leave our friends so dear,
Who stood beside us year by year
To fight in a battle of win or die,
To keep old Glory flying high.

Where imperialistic leaders now trod,
There ill be but one master, God
For only with trust and faith can we Make the world safe for democracy.

Yes, we may be but just a few,
But there is so much we can do.
We girls will run the factory machines
To back the army, navy and marines.

In parting now, we say adieu,
And pray that God will help us through
Until the day that we may see
The world, a land of liberty.

CLASS SONG

Every boy and girl
In every walk of life
Must help to do his share
In all this bitter strife.

We work in factories
Build ships and planes and tanks
To all our fighting boys
We want to show our thanks.

Americans are grateful for
A land of liberty
And we will vanquish every foe
To keep democracy.

We're the cream of the crop
And we'll never stop
Till we have licked the Jap
And kicked the Nazi off the map.

Kids from the country
Kids from the city
Kids from small towns too
The Greek, the Irish, the Scotch, the Jew.

Have left their schools to join the ranks
To show them how to fight
And we believe in fighting for
What we know is right.

The girls in defense plants, SPARS, WAVES, and WAACS,
The boys on land and see
We'll meet again
In fifty-three.

From these portals we must leave
To fight for liberty
To clasp the hand of Uncle Sam
To win a lasting victory
On the land we must march
On the sea we must sail
In the air we must fly
In sunshine, storm, and gale.
So to our classmates we bid farewell,
Our schooldays here are o'er
But we'll remember Goshen High
Forevermore.

In this bitter strife.

We work in factories
Build ships and planes and tanks
To all our fighting boys
We want to show our thanks.

Americans are grateful for
A land of liberty
And we will vandalize every foe
To keep democracy.

We're the cream of the crop
And we'll never stop
Till we have licked the Jap
And kicked the Nazi off the map.

Kids from the country
Kids from the city
Kids from small towns too
The Greek, the Irish, the Scotch, the Jew.

Have left their schools to join the tanks
To show them how to fight
And we believe in fighting for
What we know is right.

The girls in defense plants, clubs, Y's, and G's,
The boys on land and sea
We'll meet again
In fifty-three.

From these battles we must leave
To fight for liberty
To grasp the hand of Uncle Sam
To win a lasting victory
On the land we must march
On the sea we must sail
In the air we must fly
In sunshine, storm, and rain
So to our classmates we bid farewell,
Our comrades here and there
But we'll remember Goshen High
Forevermore.
